

Political philosopher Sandel guest at Express Adda today

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
New Delhi, February 22

AS ONE OF the world’s most influential public intellectuals, Michael J Sandel has engaged with the urgent moral issues of our times, his work taking on contemporary subjects with an eye on history. The political philosopher and Harvard University Professor will be the guest at Express Adda in New Delhi on Friday.

Having delved into some of the most difficult socio-political questions of our times, he has drawn from various disciplines to pen books such as The Tyranny of Merit: What’s Become of the Common Good, and What Money Can’t Buy: The Moral Limits of Markets.

His Harvard course, ‘Justice’, launched at the university more than 20 years ago, has involved thousands of students and was released as a free online course in 2009.

Michael J Sandel

Still viewed by millions around the world, it has a 12-episode television version and a companion book, Justice: What’s the Right Thing to Do?

At the Adda, Sandel will be in conversation with Anant Goenka, Executive Director, The Indian Express Group.

Sandel has travelled the globe to instruct and debate. He is part of the BBC Radio 4 series, The Public Philosopher, in which he dissects the implicit biases and subtexts of news headlines, and recorded a programme at the 2013

Jaipur Literature Festival after the Delhi rape case, on violence against women. He has led discussions on democracy with British members of Parliament and been involved with TV programmes in Brazil and Japan that have drawn millions. Some of his other acclaimed publications include The Case Against Perfection: Ethics in the Age of Genetic Engineering, Democracy’s Discontent: America in Search of a Public Philosophy, and Liberalism and the Limits of Justice.

NO PAINT COMPANY globally has ever launched, in one shot, factories, operations, products and services at this scale, he said.

The group will increase capacity by 500 million litres per annum at its existing locations in the next phase with a “significantly” lower incremental capital cost. Grasim has set up two manufacturing facilities each in north (Panipat and Ludhiana) and south India (Cheyyar near Chennai and Chamara-janagar near Mysore), and one each in the west (Mahad in Maharashtra) and east (Kharagpur in West Bengal). The Panipat, Ludhiana and Cheyyar plants were commissioned on Thursday. Chamara-janagar will start operations by the first quarter of FY25, Mahad by Q2 and Kharagpur by Q4. “This is a natural extension of our white cement business,” Birla said, adding that Grasim has ensured backward integration of its products. This enables the firm to produce core ingredients, such as emulsions for water-based paints and resins for solvent-based and wood finish paints, in-house.

Following the launch in Punjab, Haryana and Tamil Nadu, Grasim will expand to every urban area by July and cover the entire country by FY25-end. “This will mark the swiftest brand escalation in the industry to blanket cities with a population exceeding 100,000,” he added. Grasim is also setting up company-owned paint studios in 11 cities and paint galleries across 300 towns for customer experiences. On the question of the importance of paints business foray he said, “The answer lies in the bedrock of our booming infrastructure and the construction sector. This sector alone is poised to command 9% of GDP, translating to about $900 billion in a decade.”

“World over, corporates are moving to consumer-focused business and the group is also getting down the value chain in the commodity business. We are also moving towards more consumer-facing businesses,” Birla added. The paints division is also looking to build the second-largest network of dealers within the first year, with an aim to create win-win partnerships with dealers.

According to Himanshu Kapania, director of Aditya Birla Group, Birla Opus will offer more than 145 products and 1,200 stock-keeping units across water-based paints, enamel paints, wood finishes, waterproofing and wallpapers. The products offered will be across consumer segments: economy, premium, luxury, designer finishes and institutional clients. However, the company has no plans to venture into industrial paints, Birla said. In January 2021, Grasim had announced its plans to foray into the paints sector with an initial investment of ₹5,000 crore spread over three years.

Vi board meet to mull fundraise on Tuesday

AFUNDRAISE IS crucial for the company to sustain its operations, arrest subscriber churn by improving its network, as well as clear its vendor debt. Its focus is to tie up equity investments first, on the basis of which banks will lend to the company, chief executive officer Akshaya Moondra had said in October last year.

The company has been looking to raise ₹25,000 crore based on its earlier board approval for a long time now. Of the ₹25,000 crore, it has raised about ₹5,000 crore from promoters so far, and there is commitment of another ₹2,000 crore. It was expecting to finalise a fundraise plan by December 2023, which did not materialise. By December, the company has an obligation to pay debt of around ₹5,400 crore. The debt includes ₹533 crore towards spectrum payment, ₹3,200 crore to banks, and repayment of optionally convertible debentures (OCDs) of ₹1,600 crore. It also owes about ₹5,700 crore to one of its major vendors, Indus Towers, as past dues. In FY26, once the moratorium on regulatory dues is over, the company will have an obligation to pay around ₹28,000 crore to the government. From FY27 onwards, Vodafone Idea will have a debt obligation of over ₹41,000 crore to the government.

Based on the company’s free cashflow position, weakening market share, and absence of a fundraise, Vodafone Idea is expected to have a gap of ₹30,000 crore FY27 onwards, according to analysts.

Last month, many brokerage firms, including Kotak Institutional Equities, Goldman Sachs, JP Morgan, expressed concerns over Vodafone Idea’s continuous loss of subscribers and higher debt obligation after the moratorium on regulatory dues.
